The event will feature an introduction to Fidelity programs, which include language courses in Chinese and Mandarin. Other programs at the school focus on aspects of Chinese culture including dance and martial arts.

Students and instructors will showcase the Fidelity School curriculum with a colorful performance featuring kung fu, yo-yo arts, folk dance and Fidelity's Chinese orchestra, Fidelity Principal Richard Chiang said.

"Fidelity Chinese School provides people an opportunity to tie back to their own history and cultures," Chiang said. "At the same time, we wanted to be able to work with our friends, family and colleagues here in America and spread our culture to the American community."

The school serves about 250 Monmouth County-area students ages 6 to 17, according to Chiang.
